

The DogChannel Newswire

Stay up-to-date with the latest dog news from all around the country (12-21-06).

Posted: December 21, 2006, 5 a.m. EST

Dogs Accused in Mauling Won't Be Euthanized

Two Great Pyrenees dogs, suspected in the mauling death of a woman, won't be put to sleep after DNA testing was inconclusive as to whether they participated in the attack, The Nashville Tennessean reports.

Read the article >>

Council Adopts New Dangerous-Dog Law

A new dangerous-dog law in Louisville, Ky. will make it easier for animal-control officers to do their jobs and shouldn't increase crowding at the city's animal shelter, The Louisville Courier-Journal reports.

Read the article >>

Residents Plead for Help with Dogs

Attendees at a Floyd County Commissioner's meeting asked the commissioners to pass an ordinance banning or restricting animals such as wolf-dog hybrids they consider dangerous, The New Albany (Ind.) Tribune reports.

Read the article >>

Town Will Banish Dogs From Front Yards

The Goshen City Commission unanimously adopted an ordinance that requires owners to keep their dogs in backyards unless they are on a leash and in the owner's control or are with someone who is capable of restraining them, The Louisville (Ky.) Courier Journal reports.

Read the article >>

Dog Bylaw Amended to Increase Usage

Strathcona has streamlined its dog bylaw in hopes of getting more residents to license their canine pets, and the county will now start an extensive campaign to try to increase the compliance, The Sherwood Park (AB, Canada) News reports.

Read the article >>