

5 Great Dog Films

Enjoy one of these classic films about dogs.

Posted: December 29, 2006, 5 a.m. EST

Is the weather outside frightful? Then snuggle up in front of the TV and enjoy one of these classic films about dogs.

Lady and the Tramp (1955)

A polished Cocker Spaniel escapes her confining owner and falls for a scrappy mutt from the wrong side of the tracks.

Good-bye, My Lady (1956)

The poignant tale of an orphan who adopts an irreverent dog who laughs instead of barks and possesses an uncanny scenting ability.

Old Yeller (1957)

A stray dog wanders into the lives of a struggling farm family and becomes the young son's best friend.

My Dog Skip (2000)

An irresistible Jack Russell Terrier helps mend the rift between a 9-year-old boy and his remote father in rural Mississippi.

Because of Winn-Dixie (2005)

A lonely girl finds a sweet-natured dog that helps to heal her troubled family.