

America Picks Names for New Obama Dog

Online survey asks respondents to write in their picks for the White House's "first dog."

Posted: November 12, 2008, 5 a.m. EST

Yes for George, no for McCain?

Those were the results of a new MSN-Zogby poll that suggested names for President-elect Barack Obama's White House puppy.

Other winning names included Hope, Lucky, Change, Maverick, and Sarah. Others – presumably less politically motivated – included Dog, Buddy, and Snoopy. Noteworthy but less popular suggestions included Abrahound Lincoln, Audacity, Secretary of State, Tina Fey, and Economy.

The online survey of 1,549 Americans asked respondents to write in their pick for the puppy's name, and also asked what kind of dog the Obamas should get. One quarter of respondents said the Obamas should get a mutt, 15 percent said a Golden Retriever would be best, and 45 percent weren't sure.

Here are the most popular names written in by poll respondents: Hope Lucky Change Sarah George Maverick Snoopy Buddy Champ Dog Freedom King Liberty Lincoln Martin Saul Yes We Can

Other, less popular suggestions: Abrahound Lincoln Audacity Big Reg Donut Duffy Duke Economy Entropy Howard (Dean) Lady Liberty Liberty 'Libby' Momentum Nomad Nova or Jade Oprah Promise Rosa Rufus Secretary of State Tina Fey