

The DogChannel Newswire (02-04-09)

Protecting pets from Salmonella; man accused of stabbing at dog park; and other news.

Posted: February 4, 2009, 5 a.m. EST

Protecting Pets From Salmonella

The Food and Drug Administration has advice for dog owners concerned about the nationwide outbreak of Salmonella, USA Today reports.

Read now >>

Officers And Police Dog Who Saved 74-Year-Old Woman Receive Award

Two High Point, N.C., police officers and their police dog received the High Point Police Department's "Life Saving Award" for their efforts in saving a 74-year-old woman who almost died of hypothermia after disappearing from a nursing home New Year's Day, MSNBC.com reports.

Read now >>

Firefighters Rescue Dog Trapped in Cement Pit

Firefighters on Monday rescued a scared pit bull who climbed up a 75-foot high catwalk and fell into a sand and gravel pit on a construction site in Florida over the weekend, The News-Press (Fla.) reports.

Read now >>

Oregon Senator Wants Dogs Back at Capitol

Every good dog will still have its day at the Oregon State Capitol, if Eugene lawmaker Vicki Walker has her way, The Register-Guard (Ore.) reports.

Read now >>

Dog Park Fracas Leaves Pet Owner Stabbed

A man was accused of stabbing a woman in the face as he tried to protect his dog from hers at White Rock Dog Park in Dallas, Texas, The Dallas Morning News reports.

Read now >>