Customers who bought the recalled dog treats should discontinue use immediately and return items to the store location where they were purchased or destroy any remaining product. Those with questions can call American Nutrition at 800-257-4530.

Pets with Salmonella may be lethargic and experience diarrhea or bloody diarrhea, fever, and vomiting, according to the FDA. Some pets may exhibit milder systems such as decreased appetite, fever, and abdominal pain, while other pets may show no symptoms at all. The FDA recommends that pet owners contact their veterinarian if a pet has consumed the recalled product and shows these symptoms.

The FDA has posted additional information on Salmonella at their website, along with investigation updates.
