

The DogChannel Newswire (03-13-09)

Dog missing after Cape Cod Animal Hospital fire found; guide dogs trained to handle plane emergencies; and other news.

Posted: March 13, 2009, 5 a.m. EST

Dog Missing After Cape Cod Animal Hospital Fire Found

A dog that had been missing since a fire at the Cape Cod Animal Hospital earlier this week has been found, the Associated Press reports. Read now >>

Guide Dogs Trained to Handle Plane Emergencies

Guide dogs for the blind go everywhere with their human partners, but when their destination is a plane ride away, it's not always so easy, CNN.com reports. Read now >>

Lack of Pet License to Carry $75 fine

Starting April 1, 2009, dog and cat owners in unincorporated King County, Wash., who fail to license their pets could face a $75 fine, the Seattle Times reports. Read now >>

K9 Cop in Connecticut Sued After Dog Bites Suspect

A suspect who led police on a car chase claims a K-9 officer sicced his police dog on him after he had surrendered, the Connecticut Post reports. Read now >>

Neglected Dog Found in Recycling Bin

A hungry, neglected dog needs a home after being discovered in a plastics recycling bin in Traverse City, Mich., the Associated Press reports. Read now >>