

The DogChannel Newswire (03-24-09)

Denver sniffs out dog park ideas; giving new life to pets in pain; and other news.

Posted: March 24, 2009, 5 a.m. EDT

Denver Sniffs Out Dog Park Ideas

The city of Denver wants to know if its six dog parks are filling the bill for the city's canine residents, The Denver Post reports.

Read now >>

Reinstatement of Spay, Neuter Vouchers Urged in Los Angeles

Four members of the Los Angeles City Council introduced a motion Friday ordering the city Department of Animal Services to reinstate a voucher program that allows low-income pet owners to spay and neuter their animals free, the Los Angeles Times reports.

Read now >>

Kent County Humane Society Launches Pet Project

The Kibble Konnection, a pet food pantry run by the Humane Society of Kent County, Mich., is meant to help owners with squeezed budgets, The Associated Press reports.

Read now >>

Police Dog Stabbing a Close Call

San Diego police Sgt. Jess Havin knew every minute mattered when he scooped up his bloodied partner and bolted to the cruiser they've shared for five years, the San Diego Union-Tribune reports.

Read now >>

New Life for Pets in Pain

What looked like a Lab's lifetime of suffering became a journey of recovery thanks to a medical procedure that is offering hope to animals with problems once deemed irreparable, the Orange County (Calif.) Register reports.

Read now >>