Jennifer Hudson plans to include her dogs Grammy, Oscar, and Dreamgirl in her upcoming wedding to fiancé David Otunga.

"I want my dogs to be in my wedding. I am so serious," Hudson told Access Hollywood. "Like Oscar might be the ring bearer or something," she says.

"We'll send them down the aisle with a little tux or something, a little dress," Jennifer added.

"We're both very creative and kind of unique," said Hudson, who's been dating Otunga for a year and a half.

"I don't want to have the same exact wedding as everyone else ... Lord, he might come walking down the aisle for all we know."

Hudson also revealed that she'll sing at her wedding ("I sang for everybody else's wedding, I might as well sing for my own," she joked) and design her own dress. "I want the dress to be nice and traditional, but very classy, very classy," she said.

Hudson was less revealing when it came to divulging the ceremony's date. "Well, it's a secret date," she said coyly.
