

The DogChannel Newswire (04-17-09)

New Hampshire mulls Chinook as state dog; good Samaritan does CPR on Poodle; and other news.

Posted: April 17, 2009, 5 a.m. EDT

New Hampshire House to Mull Proposal to Make Chinook State Dog

The Chinook soon could be New Hampshire's official state dog, The Associated Press reports.

Read now >>

Good Samaritan Does CPR on Pet Poodle

An Oregon man saves a dog hit by a car using "mouth-to-snout" CPR, cbsnews.com reports.

Read now >>

Does Bo Know He's Top Dog?

The Obamas' new pet is a celebrity. Trainers and psychologists ask: Does the dog understand? The New York Times reports.

Read now >>

First Dog Bo

Bo seems to be leading the president around on a leash, and the American public appears willing to follow, the Los Angeles Times reports.

Read now >>

California Man Shoots Pit Bull Who Attacked Cat

A San Pedro, Calif., man shot and killed a pit bull who turned on him after attacking his neighbor's cat, police said, the dailybreeze.com reports.

Read now >>