

The DogChannel Newswire (04-25-09)

Police work finds missing Bulldog; proposed Hawaii pit bull ban looks dead; and other news.

Posted: April 25, 2009, 5 a.m. EDT

Dogged Police Work Finds Dog for Owner

It took some dogged police work, but Daisy the English Bulldog is home a week after she went missing, The Associated Press reports.

Read now >>

Dog Rescued From Squalid Rural Property Gets New Life

Finney the Great Pyrenees mix seems to find everything to his liking these days except car rides, the Dallas Morning News reports.

Read now >>

Wheeling May Set 3-Pet Limit for Apartments, Condos

Wheeling, Ill., officials may impose tighter restrictions on the number of dogs and cats allowed in townhomes and apartments, despite pleas from a woman cited for owning too many pets, the Chicago Tribune reports.

Read now >>

Proposed Pit Bull Ban in Hawaii Looks Dead

A bill that would ban the ownership of pit bull dogs in Hawaii appears to be dead this session, the Honolulu Advertiser reports.

Read now >>

California Couple Devastated by Theft of Dog From Front Yard

The loss has devastated the Saratoga, Calif., family, including their other dog, who keeps looking for his littermate, the San Jose Mercury News reports.

Read now >>