

Website, Foundation Donate to Dog Food Bank

10,000 pounds of dog food donated to Pooch Pantry will benefit pet owners in need.

Posted: May 16, 2009, 5 a.m. EDT

Online pet food store K9Cuisine.com and the WellPet Foundation are helping dog owners in financial crisis by making a 10,000-pound pet food donation to the Pooch Pantry in Mundelein, Ill.

The all-natural donated dog food goes to help families who are struggling to feed their animals, said Anthony Holloway, K9Cuisine.com owner. The goal is to feed as many dogs as possible by keeping the pet food bank stocked for months, he said.

The Pooch Pantry operates out of the B.C. Dog Training Club in Mundelein. Many of the pet owners who benefit from it are seniors on fixed incomes.

K9Cuisine.com and Wellness each donated 5,000 pounds of dog food.