

The DogChannel Newswire (09-25-09)

Wisconsin bill would regulate dog breeders; groomers use CPR to rescue dog; and other news.

Posted: September 25, 2009, 5 a.m. EDT

Wisconsin Would Regulate Dog Breeders Under Bill

Wisconsin would join the majority of states that regulate dog breeders under a compromise bill endorsed by groups that fought state oversight for more than a decade, The Associated Press reports.

Read now >>

After Michael Vick, the Battle to Stop Dogfighting

"Fresh Air" contributor Dave Davies talks with John Goodwin, Humane Society manager of animal-fighting issues, and Sean Moore, a Chicago-based former dogfighter who works in that city on the Humane Society's efforts campaign to end dogfighting in that city, NPR reports.

Listen now >>

Stephen Moyer's Dog Has Wedding Duties

Although newly engaged couple Anna Paquin and Stephen Moyer may not be giving away too much about their upcoming nuptials, the duo spent a night out in L.A.. to support the Good Dog Rescue Foundation and proved they really love animals, OK! Magazine reports.

Read now >>

Dog Groomers Use CPR to Rescue Dog

Benny looked like a goner. The 8-year-old Boxer collapsed at the Biscuits and Bows pet grooming facility in Palatine, Ill. He had no pulse and he wasn't breathing. But thanks to a quick thinking pet massage therapist the pooch will be just fine, NBC Chicago reports.

Read now >>