

Melted Plastic Prompts Puppy Food Recall

Nutro voluntarily recalls select puppy foods due to discovery in its production line.

Posted: October 9, 2009, 5 a.m. EDT

Nutro Products has issued a voluntary recall of select puppy foods due to the discovery of melted plastic in its production line. The company said it is highly unlikely that any pieces of plastic made it into the finished product, but is retrieving all potentially affected products anyway.

The small pieces of plastic, identified as a worker's "bump cap," similar to a hard hat, which inadvertently made its way into the manufacturing process, was originally found in both Nutro dry cat and dog food products. However, the company said since it immediately retrieved the affected pet food from its distributors, only three SKUs reached a small number of Petsmart and Petco stores. The three SKUs are:

Best By Date	Product Name	UPC	Size
9/10/10	Nutro Ultra Puppy Food for Dogs	79105 51313	4.5
9/10/10	Nutro Natural Choice Chicken Meal, Rice and Oatmeal Formula Small Bites Puppy
9/10/10	Nutro Ultra Puppy Food for Dogs	79105 51315	30

Nutro Products encourages consumers who believe they have purchased a potentially affected product to return it to the retailer for a full refund or exchange it for another Nutro product.

The Nutro Products Consumer Care team can be reached at 800-833-5330.