

The DogChannel Newswire (10-21-09)

Girl reunited with dog rescued from well; dog ban fight in dog-friendly city; and other news.

Posted: October 21, 2009, 5 a.m. EDT

Anatomy of a Raid to Rescue Dogs Allegedly Bred to Fight

First stop was the Sheriff's Office in Laurens County, which is in central Georgia. Starting with information from a tip line, authorities had uncovered clues that led them to believe they needed to intervene and investigate, CNN reports.

Read now >>

Girl Reunited With Dog Rescued From Well

In the quiet little town of Olar, S.C., it's the feel-good story of the year: Olivia Hartzog, age 4, was reunited with her beloved pet Mollie after the poor pooch was trapped overnight 33 feet down an abandoned well on the family property, MSNBC.com reports.

Read now >>

Warrant Issued in Dog Dragging Case

A warrant has been issued for a Florida woman charged with animal cruelty for dragging a Cocker Spaniel behind her car in August on a Niagara County roadway, The Buffalo (N.Y.) News reports.

Read now >>

Huntington Beach Dog Ban a Bone of Contention

Nobody would ever call Huntington Beach, Calif., anti-dog. Far from it. It was no surprise that Huntington Beach is the reigning "DogTown USA" among mid-sized cities, as chosen this year by DOG FANCY magazine. But there is the matter of Tuesday nights on Main Street, the Los Angeles Times reports.

Read now >>