

DockDogs Take Off on TV

Watch DockDogs and America's fastest-growing dog sport on TV's Outdoor Channel.

Posted: August 6, 2007, 5 a.m. EST

Unable to trek to your nearest dock to watch the fastest-growing dog sport in America? Then sit back, relax, and reach for the TV remote.

Dock diving, the wet and wonderful dog sport where canines run along and jump off a dock into a body of water, debuts on TV in October 2007.

The Outdoor Channel brings America "DockDogs," a seven-part original series which will broadcast the qualifying events of the East, West and Midwest regions.

Watch America's top dock-diving dog teams go head-to-head in two competitions: Dock Diving (the long jump) and Extreme Vertical (the high jump). Top-qualifying dogs who jump the farthest or highest, respectively, will be invited to the National Championship Finals.

The dates and locations of the competitions are as follows:

West Regional
August 3-5
Clark County Fair
Clark County, WA

East Regional
August 17-19
Frederick County Sports Expo
Frederick County, MD

Central Regional
September 15-17
Terre Haute Air Show
Terre Haute, IN

Championship
October 5-7
Great Outdoors Show
Nelsonville, OH

For more information on the Outdoor Channel, visit www.outdoorchannel.com.