

NBC Weatherman Shops Dog Reality Show to Networks

NBC "Today" show weatherman Al Roker has developed a reality television show about disobedient dogs.

September 14, 2005NBC Today show weatherman Al Roker has developed a reality television show about disobedient dogs, the Associated Press reported.

The show teams Roker with celebrity dog trainer Tamar Geller. It uses hidden cameras to catch dogs misbehaving, at which point Geller drops in to offer obedience tips to the owner.

Roker has yet to sell the show to a network, the AP reported.