

Dog Whisperer Cesar Millan

New book sheds light on his unique approach to dog (and people) training.

Maureen Kochan

You know his TV show, The Dog Whisperer, on the National Geographic Channel, and the names of his celebrity clients: Will Smith, Hilary Duff, and Oprah Winfrey.

Now renowned animal behaviorist Cesar Millan publishes his first book, Cesars Way, which describes his successful approach for helping dogs and their owners achieve a healthy, balanced life together. A favorite Cesar saying: I rehabilitate dogs. I train people.

The book, co-written by Emmy award-winning writer Melissa Jo Peltier, unfolds in Cesars trademark tough yet humorous style and is peppered with anecdotes about his clients, both Hollywood stars and regular people.

Look for Cesars book in stores on April 4.

Posted: April 3, 2006, 5 a.m. EST