

The DogChannel Newswire (09-21-07)

Stay up-to-date with the latest dog news from all around the country.

Posted: September 21, 2007, 5 a.m. EST

Parvovirus Outbreak Sickens Dogs

An increase in the potentially lethal parvovirus has health agencies opening emergency vaccination clinics in Orange County, Calif., The Orange County Register reports.

Read the article >>

Your Dog's Essential Information, Compactly Stored

KoogaPet is selling a flash drive that can hang from a pet's collar and store owner and veterinarian information, The New York Times reports.

Read the article >>

Former Foe Pushes for Service Dog at School

A school blocks a deaf student's attempts to bring his service dog with him to school; a parent who formerly opposed the effort now joins forces to help get the dog in, Newsday reports.

Read the article >>

'Hostage' Dog Freed by Kindness of Stranger

A dog that seemed destined for the pound and possible euthanasia has been reunited with his owner. A dispute between a veterinarian and the dog's owner regarding an unpaid bill is resolved after a stranger stepped forward and paid the $972 bill, The Atlanta Journal-Constitution reports.

Read the article >>

16-Year-Old Boy Making Boise State-Themed Dog Products

Sixteen-year-old Eric Stein founded The Copper Dog three years ago, selling animal treats at a Boise, Idaho, Saturday market. Over the past few years, Eric and his mom have added dog collars, bandanas and vests to their line of products, KTVB (Boise) reports.

Read the article >>